

Woodro

Woodro is the preferred timber option for public area seating where the beauty of natural wood is required. Ideally suited for outdoor use by virtue of its hard wearing iroko timber seats. Applications include waiting areas, transport concourses and recreational uses.

The Transport for London version of Woodro for London Overground features high visibility end arms, stainless steel end caps with the upper displaying the TFL logo and a priority seating sign fixed to one seating position per beam.

Designed for Hille by Robin Day the individual seat places are mounted on a tough steel base, making it suitable for both indoor and outdoor installations. Timber is sourced from sustainable hard wood forests.
